Technical Data Collection

When you visit our website, we automatically collect metadata about your browsing session, including your browser type, internet service provider, the site from which you navigated to our website, duration of your visit, browser location data, and device type (e.g., computer, smartphone, or tablet). A record of your visit is made as a "hit" that includes your Internet Protocol Address and the pages you have visited. Although IP addresses are collected, they are used solely for statistical purposes and are not linked to individual identities. No personally identifiable information is collected from you. This "hit" information allows us to compile statistics about the number and types of visitors to our website, helping us to enhance site functionality and user experience.
